Elijah is a fiery young prophet who believes that God has called him to speak out against the idolatry and corruption that has taken hold of the land. He preaches a message of repentance and warns of God's judgment to come.

Ahab is the high priest of Baal, the false god that the majority of the Israelites worship. He is a cunning and ambitious man who uses his power to control the people and maintain his own wealth and influence.

When Elijah and Ahab clash, the stakes are high. The fate of the nation hangs in the balance, and both men are willing to do whatever it takes to win.
