The Five Sources of Light

The book's title, "Personal Panchanga and the Five Sources of Light," refers to the five primary luminaries in Vedic astrology:

- Sun: The source of life and vitality, representing our ego and consciousness.
- Moon: The symbol of emotions and the subconscious mind, influencing our moods and intuition.
- Mars: The planet of action, energy, and ambition, driving our motivation and courage.
- Mercury: The messenger of the gods, symbolizing communication, intellect, and learning.
- Jupiter: The planet of expansion, wisdom, and prosperity, bestowing knowledge and abundance.

By examining the positions and interactions of these five sources of light in our Panchanga, we gain profound insights into our:

- Personality traits: Are we confident, intuitive, ambitious, or curious?
- Life path: What opportunities, challenges, and lessons lie ahead?
- Relationship dynamics: How do our planetary configurations affect our interactions with others?
- Spiritual growth: What areas of life require balance, healing, or transformation?
